

1st Session Countdown

Months	Days
3	3

2nd Session Countdown

Months	Days
4	1

Wut'z New

Hey there!

The past month has flown by for me. I have been on spring break for almost 2 weeks, and to top it off, the weather has been beautiful here in Boston. We did have a bit of a flood problem because of all the rain we've gotten, but when it isn't raining, it's been absolutely gorgeous. It reminds me of summer and makes me miss camp that much more!

Camp's only three months away (I know a lot of you have a countdown going or have been following our countdown!). I can only hope that these next three months fly by so that I can be up at camp teaching lacrosse and hanging out with all of you. Until then, keep e-mailing me and filling me in on all of your lives!

Looking forward to summer,

- Tammy

2010 Campers and LTGs

- Lizzy Curland
- Hunter DiCarlo
- Mariana Gomariz
- Jose Munoz-Nieto
- Tori O'Connor
- Meredith Rippert
- Jilly Stein
- Ferni Velasco
- Courtney Leopold
- Anna Lee
- Lucy Ward

First Timers

- Alessia Erminy Pileggi
- Anna Valentino
- Lisa Gardner
- Cecilia Liu
- Alice Turley
- Addie Duckett
- Alina Sarli
- Kata Visek

April Birthdays

- | | |
|-------------------|----------------|
| Alana Udwin | Grace Noden |
| Madeline Johnson | Sarah Darwin |
| Lena Tilsworth | Ruby Stevens |
| Laura Greenwood | Cailin Gore |
| Jennifer Zurek | Anna Mullen |
| Jose Munoz-Nieto | Lizzie Fine |
| Ginger Atwood | Melissa Harsch |
| Michelle Maftsir | Gabby Maftsir |
| Roberta Montoya | Emilia Ratus |
| Maria Bellapart | Valentina Gil |
| Margaret Morrison | |

Hellllooooo Camp Wa-Killloooooo,

While I was driving home from work yesterday, I saw it. The trees are beginning to bud. There's no denying it, life is beginning to pulsate through the trees, the shrubs, and I've seen a few flowers appear in the oddest places. While Jaffrey (Dr. Maurer's dog) and I take walks, Jaffrey loves to find the random flowers amongst the ivy and weeds and leave his mark on them. I suppose it's his small way of showing appreciation to the newness sprouting all around us.

I lived in Louisiana most of my life; I only moved to New York in 2007. In Louisiana, the cold weather would come and go during the winter months. Louisiana would definitely get cold, but it wouldn't stay cold. As a Louisiana girl, I could wear shorts many times during the winter, and I was able to spend a great deal of time outside year round. I suppose one of the biggest adjustments to living in New York, especially this year, has been getting quality time outside during the winter. I've always known that fresh air, sunshine, and nature are as vital to me as bathing, and being stuck inside for the last few months has been taxing. I always enjoyed spring when living down south, but now as a northerner not only do I enjoy spring, but I also appreciate it so much more.

I notice the renewal that spring brings now more than I've ever before. I truly see the brown turf turning into a sparkling, green field; I can't wait to see that special lily show its color amongst the twigs and branches that have fallen during the winter storms; and watching the trees come to life is nothing short of a miracle.

Yes, I miss the Louisiana winters, but the spring rewards have made New York winters bearable. My challenge for you is to find new appreciation for something that you love. If a beloved friend is getting on your nerves, remind yourself what makes that friend so deeply special to you by finding new appreciation. I've decided that a bitterly cold winter exists to make spring feel so much better.

Spring leads to summer which leads you to the gates of Wa-Klo...

See you very soon,

Miss Chenet

